History & Mission: The United States Secret Service, one of the nation's oldest federal investigative law enforcement agencies, was founded in 1865 as a branch of the U.S. Treasury Department. The RTC has served as the training academy for the Secret Service since 1971 and is comprised of almost 500 acres of land, six miles of roadway and 31 buildings.

The core curriculum provided by RTC is designed for special agents, Uniformed Division officers, special officers and physical security specialists. In a single year, hundreds of training recruits undergo extensive training in firearms marksmanship, use-of-force/control tactics, emergency medical techniques, financial crimes detection, physical /site /event protection and water survival training. Also, veteran law enforcement, executive/managerial, administrative and technical personnel are offered comprehensive specialized and technology-based training courses throughout their careers.

Advanced computer-driven methodologies enable RTC to reach beyond its Laurel facilities to provide "on-site" educational experiences to personnel throughout the Secret Service's domestic and international field offices. The Secret Service supports its valued law enforcement partners from across the country by providing protective security, financial crimes, specialized tactical and weapons training to other federal, state and local law enforcement personnel.
